Welcome to A WIDER SHADE OF GREEN

Starting a new year always brings about some new changes and perspectives.

Within the past four years, Peace College has grown from a two year school to a four year college. Our theme, A Wider Shade of Green, describes the way that our school has grown and taken on many more intellectual and extracurricular aspects.

Peace now has a "wider" range of classes, of ethnic and of geographical backgrounds, as well as a more extensive career contact source. With every new idea presented to a student or to any person a wider perspective is given and makes those things known before richer, more useful or obsolete. Our "Shade" has changed over the years as well. We have grown and matured and given ourselves a deeper, or wider, shade of being. Originally formed as a finishing school, Peace has evolved into an intellectual institution existing for the purpose of higher education and the career development of female students.

We have chosen to use "Green" as a symbol of Peace itself. This color being the associated school color it represents Peace in this way as well as being representative in nature as a sign of life and growth. It is a color that attaches itself to many diverse plants and other points of nature, and can represent that diversity of interests and background of Peace students themselves. The same life and growth that is seen on campus, we have tried to reflect in this year's copy of the Lotus. We hope that this new and exciting book will motivate you to take a look at A Wider Shade of Green.

The Peace College Campus is alive with activity. The bricks of the buildings form the physical foundation of Peace but we students represent the heart of it. From the everyday bustle of students traversing the walks to the special meetings and fun activities planned, there is no want for something to do. Presented in this section are captured moments of campus life at Peace College. Everything from dances to dorm life, Mother and Father/Daughter weekends to Stunt Night is included here. This is the view that we get from inside Peace buildings or out on the brick walks. This is the heart of Peace.

STUNT NIGHT

"It was an enjoyable experience to make the audience laugh!"

Karen Balch

On January 22 at 7:00 students and faculty gathered together in the recital hall for another battle of the sister classes ...this time for Stunt Night.

For over a week the girls practiced, each group trying to get their skit to be the very best.

The first skit to be performed was the Freshman/Junior production of "15 EAST: A news show. Sort of." Meredith Royall and Roni Garcia played news anchors Crystal Light and Koola Aid. They dazzled the audience with reports about the honor pledge, moving day, the Fall Cocktail, and, parking problems. They even threw in a commercial. At the end they invited the audience to join them on stage in a celebration of the Freshman/Junior graduation year of 1999.

Not to be outdone, the Sophomore/Senior production of the musical "Annie" walked away with the win. In their production, Devon Umstead played Annie, a girl thinking about coming to Peace. Throughout the skit Annie enrolled at Peace and eventually graduated as well. At the end of this musical they scored twenty points higher than the Freshman/Junior sister class.

"It was a lot of fun! I'll do it again!" Billie Vanderford

"I'm definitely going to be in it next year! It looked like a lot of fun!" Michelle Behvand

"It was a fun kind of craziness! We had a lot of fun practicing for it. I'd do it again." Susan Major

ACADEMIC CONVOCATION

Just before 4:00 P.M. on August 17, 1997, approximately 211 women, dressed in white, filed into Kenan Recital Hall. They watched as the Peace College Faculty entered wearing full Academic regalia. What was going on? This was the start of the 126th Annual Freshman Academic Convocation.

The girls of first Finley attend Convocation.

Convocation, which is the official opening of the academic year, is one of Peace's strongest traditions. It provides the faculty with an opportunity to welcome the first-year students to the school. In addition, many students are recognized as scholarship recipients.

Tori Mervyn remembered leaving the Recital Hall after Convocation and noticing a few professors who were trying to duck out of a different door. Tori said, "When they opened the door, an alarm went off and they started running away."

Michelle Behvand's favorite part was seeing the professors and teachers wearing their academic regalia. She said it showed how they had worked hard and succeeded. Now it was our turn to do the same.

Before heading to the dining hall for a special meal, Katie Litchfield, Lauren O'Neal, Sarah Newton, and Shelby Barber pose for a picture.

Writing THE INSTITUTE

Below: Dr. Arrington's winning skit was a talk show recognizing the dysfunctional students of the institute, starring Sarah Tipton as the talk show host.

In late July roughly fifty freshmen prepared for an intense English writing experience. They didn't just write, however. The freshmen attended church at Duke University, toured downtown Raleigh, took a shopping trip to the Crabtree Valley Mall, and participated in a variety of fun activities on campus as well.

Most students left the Writing Institute feeling that they had an advantage over other incoming freshmen. They now knew some of the faculty, other freshmen, and the layout of the campus.

"I liked getting a jump start on college, being able to learn the college grounds, and getting to know people." Melinda Patterson.

peace PARENT'S WEEKEND

Peace College celebrates one of its most popular traditions, Parents Weekend, in front of historical Main.

Susan Willey and her mother enjoy the easy listening of The Embers.

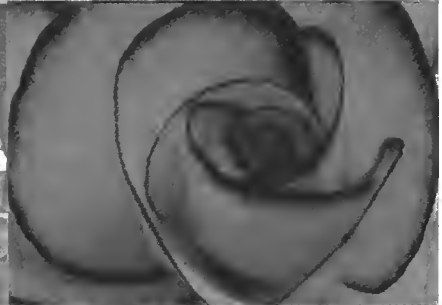

Carrying on a Peace College tradition, Parent's Weekend took place October 4th to 6th, 1997. Along with the opportunity to meet Peace faculty and staff, parents were able to see the place their daughter calls a "home away from home." One of the highlights of the weekend was the return of the famous beach music band, The Embers. Parents, students, and staff had the chance to sit back and relax on the front lawn, or to dance the afternoon away. The day ended when everyone joined together in the recital hall for a historical musical called "Hats off to Peace." Parents weekend was once again a success and now is one more event added to Peace College history.

highlights of the weekend was the return of ...
The Embers.

Jenny Edmondson and her father spend quality time together while they keep up with the beat.

Parents, students, and friends shag the afternoon away on the Peace College front lawn.

In their Hawaiian attire, The Embers take over the stage for another parents weekend at Peace College.

Finley DORMLIFE

First Finley definitely has its advantages: no dreadful stairs to climb or an elevator whose gate never seems to be closed. Gina Everett says, "I just love my hall! I love all the girls on my hall!"

peace FamilyWeekends

Throughout the school year Peace organizes weekends in which the families of students can come and have fun. On Mother/Daughter weekend in the fall, mothers spent the night with their daughters. On Saturday they explored the Museum of Art and later enjoyed a movie together. When the fathers came to visit in the spring for Father/Daughter day they got to have some fun as well. The Peace Lionesses entertained the dads as the basketball team battled it out. Later the fathers spruced up to dance with their daughters.

Little Sister weekend was by far the most favored of any of the family weekends. The little sisters ranged in age from five to fifteen and on. No matter what the age everyone enjoyed the activities. Girls wobbled all over the ice at the Ice Plex where the students made their first stop. They then enjoyed activities such as the Easter Egg Hunt in the Recital Hall and movies in Belk Lounge.

The DATING GAME

"Being in the Dating Game was fun, but the best part was sitting in the audience after our turn and watching Jamie Brown's game. She had those boys dancing. It was crazy!"

-Jamie Surgeon

Need a date? Try the Dating Game! Sara Bowman, Victoria Clemons, Jamie Surgeon, Bea Hayden, Meredith Hardison, Emily Harrell, Valerie Cormani, and Jamie Brown all tried their luck in this year's annual event. However, Sara Bowman, Bea Hayden, Meredith Hardison, and Jamie Brown left with a man that night.

There were four games in all, two with the guys asking the questions and two with the Peace girls asking the questions. "How do you like to eat your Reese's Peanut Butter Cups?" and "What is your best pick-up line in a dance club?" were just a couple of the questions asked.

The audience was able to see quite a bit of craziness before the end of the game. Jamie Surgeon sang, Shuna Dozier danced, and in the third game, a guy named Jimmy Shiltz stripteased. Another boy, David Holt, was on crutches and was forced to pass when Meredith Hardison asked him to show off his moves. The next boy quickly grabbed one of David's crutches and used it as his dancing partner. Needless to say, lots of laughs were had.

This boy tried to win a date by showing off his dancing skills, among other things.

As Jamie Surgeon describes what she is wearing, Victoria Clemons and Bea Hayden watch and laugh.

peace PEANUTWEEK

What would you have to do to deserve receiving a gift a day for four days? Would you believe nothing? From February 9th to the 12th, that's just what happened for many Peace students. PSCA sponsored "Peanut Week" in which participating students were given the name of a girl and then acted as their secret "peanut." They gave them a present each day. On that Thursday, a special "peanut" dinner was held so the gift-givers could reveal themselves.

A table was set up in the Main lobby to act as the "drop off" and "pick up" zone. By lunchtime, piles of goodies covered the table and girls hovered around, in search of the package with their name on it. Teresa Morris, a freshman, was excited about Peanut Week, but also had some reservations. "In the past, I have had some bad experiences with Secret Santas," she said, "But my peanut, Stephanie Carden, was the best!"

During Thursday's special Peanut Dinner, Melissa samples the goods.

Patrice Moorefield and Jenny Clarke chat about peanut week during dinner in the Dining Hall.

By noon each day of Peanut Week, the table was covered in gifts and girls crowded around, looking for their name.

peace DORM EDUCATIONALS

Yoga. Shagging. Alcoholism. What do these things have in common? They were all types of dorm educationals.

During the first semester, each Resident Assistant chose an educational for her hall. Every student was required to participate in one educational each semester. Many halls joined together and learned self-defense one evening. Friends paired up and practiced "beating each other up."

Things ran differently during second semester. After the RA's decided what type of educational they would like to hold, it was announced. All students were welcome to attend any educational of their choice. Karen Balch chose "Amazing Glaze" as her educational. The students went to a studio and painted ceramics. Other educationals included Alcohol Law Enforcement, the environment, and iceskating. Overall, the change was appreciated and the educationals were found to be, well, educational.

The girls practice kicking and punching at the self-defense educational.

Peace students watch as the instructor demonstrates how to bring an attacker to his knees.

During the first educational on self-defense, the instructor jumped over a row of students and broke a board with his foot.

peace DORMLIFE

What were they doing?? Rochelle Goreham and friends goof off in the halls of Ross dormitory.

What really goes on within the walls of Peace dormitories? Well, exactly what you would imagine! If students were not studying, watching TV, or running up their phone bill, they were probably sleeping.

Each dorm had its own memories and took on its own personality. Third Finley was known for being loud, Main was known for being close-knit, and Davidson was referred to as the "Hilton" because it seemed to be "more luxurious" than the others.

It was in dorms that many friendships were created. Mauri Lybrand said, "I liked bonding and making new friends. It's much easier living on campus."

peace SPRINGFLING

Spring fling was a blast this year with the first ever Red Rose Ball held at the Elk's lodge in Raleigh. The students and their dates danced the night away with Cream of Soul, a 70's and 80's funk band. The Spring Fling fun continued the following day with the Spring Carnival. Students and their dates were invited out on Peace Beach for fun, food, games, and excitement. Karaoke was available for those who dared to sing and many enjoyed the giant moonwalk, making the 1998 Spring Fling a huge success.

DEPARTMENTS & MAJORS

Human Resources

Peace College is one of the few colleges in North Carolina to have a Human Resources department. In this department, students learn what it takes to work in the areas of employee hiring, benefits, and development.

Psychology

This department challenges the minds of students while preparing them for careers studying human behavior. Psychology students take courses which delve deeply into the human psyche. Dr. Kanoy is a favorite among Peace students because she challenges them to think before they act and to analyze situations before sticking their feet in their mouths.

Communications

Within this major, students learn the skills they need for careers in business, art, design, journalism and public communication. With the guidance of teachers such as Carolyn Parker, Dan French, David McLennan and Woody Holliman, these students acquire the knowledge and skills to succeed in the real world.

Biology

Students majoring in Biology acquire basic research skills as they work their way through rigorous courses designed to ensure a firm grasp of biological concepts. Most Biology majors go on to become lab assistants, nurses, or medical doctors. However, some can do other things such as physical therapy or teaching.

Business

The business program at Peace emphasizes both liberal studies and business management. Business majors take extensive courses in mathematics, marketing, and business management. Senior Stephanie Blott is one such major. She is gathering experience here at Peace through the Drama Department, as well as the Communications office.

Liberal Arts

Students within this major have the freedom to design their own curriculum. It prepares students for more specific fields of study once they reach graduate school. Within this major are specializations such as English, Music, and History. To achieve a music major here at Peace, freshman Mandy York is going through the Liberal Arts program. She intends to graduate as a Music Major in Piano.

Sigma Delta Mu

Sigma Delta MU is a national honor society in Spanish for two year colleges and the first three semesters of four-year colleges and universities. The national headquarters for this society is based at Peace College.

To be eligible for Sigma Delta Mu membership, students must be enrolled in the second semester or higher, be in good academic standing, have a minimal grade point average of 3.00 in Spanish, and rank in the upper 35% of her class or have a minimal overall average of 2.75.

Sigma Delta Pi

Sigma Delta Pi is a national honor society for four year colleges and universities. With over 470 chapters nationwide, it is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies and is affiliated with the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese (AATSP) and the Modern Language Association (MLA). Last spring, Peace College inducted its first three members into the Upsilon Beta chapter of Sigma Delta Pi.

To be eligible for Sigma Delta Pi membership, students must have a strong academic profile, have a B or above average in Spanish, and have completed advanced level courses taught in Spanish.

As part of the society's service to the Peace College family, members offer free Spanish tutoring to students in need. Sigma Delta Pi, in conjunction with Sigma Delta Mu, helped organize "Motown Meets Salsa", an on-campus event which allowed students to experience current music from Latin America and appreciate the classics of Motown.

HONORSOCIETIES

Phi Theta Kappa

Phi Theta Kappa is a national honor society for American junior colleges which encourages scholarship among junior college students. The Peace College chapter of this honor society is called Gamma Phi.

To be eligible for membership a student must carry a full time course load, attain a grade-point average of at least 3.70 for first year students and 3.50 cumulative for sophomores. To remain in good standing a member must maintain a 3.30 cumulative grade-point average.

Members of Phi Theta Kappa offer individual tutoring on a volunteer basis as their schedules allow.

Le Cenacle de Peace

Le Cenacle de Peace is a chapter of the French Honor Society. Like most other honor societies it requires a GPA of 3.5 or higher in French, and the student must have taken two of the advanced French courses. The advisor Dr. Deluca is very proud of her honor society; she speaks highly of its members and of their devotion to French.

Unlike most other honor societies there is a mystery that surrounds Le Cenacle de Peace. No outsiders are allowed to view the initiation ceremony. Those who participate in the ceremony are sworn to secrecy, leaving the rest of us to wonder. All that we know about their initiation is that once it is over the members of the honor society suddenly appear wearing sea shell necklaces around their necks, and silver rings on their fingers.

The mystery may intrigue someone enough to join the French classes in hopes of becoming a member of Le Cenacle de Peace.

DR. BRIGGS RETIRES

After a decade of hard work, Dr. Garrett Briggs has decided to retire from Peace College. He has become friends with many Peace students and faculty over the years. Dr. Briggs is a man described by many as a father figure.

He once allowed a pair of freshmen on a hall scavenger hunt to invade his office looking for information. A memory that freshman Billie Vanderford won't soon forget as she prepares for the incoming President, a woman who once attended Peace herself.

"Whenever he sees me he gives me a hug and talks to me no matter who he's with, what he's doing or where he's going." Liz Heiffer Right: Dr. Briggs gave his last speech for Awards Day this year. It was not a long one, but it was certainly one we will never forget.

Though Peace will welcome the new president with open arms, we will never forget the man who has meant so much to so many.

P.J. Lane (along with some other girls) assembled a scrap book of prayers provided by the student body for Dr. Briggs. It was a present which meant a lot to him when he accepted it at the Senior Chapel.

The love the Senior Class has for him was evident in the passionate speech that LeaAnn Oakes gave at Senior Chapel in April. As she spoke of Dr. Briggs tears streamed down her face. "I didn't do this in rehearsal," she stated as she wiped them away.

THE LOTUS

The Peace College Lotus provides an opportunity for students to contribute in an imaginative, creative manner to their school. The Lotus helps create the image of Peace College for prospective students and preserves memories of Peace for its alumnae. Participation on the Lotus staff gives students valuable job experience in graphic design, writing, editing, proofreading, photography, and desktop publishing.

Heather Evans takes a break from a busy "yearbook overload".

Peace College is a liberal arts school providing many opportunities both in intellectual and creative studies. Many talented students are enrolled here and dazzle their peers with abilities to use their voice, body and mind in uncommon ways. Displayed in this section are images of the creativity of students and professors alike. From dance, to art and voice, as well as talent on musical instruments Peace College is a very diverse environment. Opportunities to display these abilities are abundant and anyone interested in enjoying and appreciating these students can attend one of the many recitals or concerts given here.

CHAMBER singers

This year's group of Chamber Singers, directed by Jim Smith, has been extremely busy. The eighteen member group is preparing for their fourth European Tour while continuing to perform for Peace College functions. The Chamber Singers perform not only in our chapel, but in other churches as well. They also act as Ambassadors for the college by performing at junior/senior visitations. A compact disc featuring the Chamber Singers, titled Music From Peace, was released in October 1995 and is forsale in the Book Store in Belk Hall.

CHAMBER rehearsals

The 1997-98 Chamber Singers spend many hours rehearsing for upcoming events and performances. This time is crucial for them to be able to put on such an awesome show. Each year a singer receives a scholarship for participating in the group. Under the direction of Jim Smith, this elite vocal group is one of the most popular performing groups at Peace.

PA^{CERS} dance company

The Peace Pacer Dance Company is an excellent opportunity for young women to creatively express themselves through dance. The company consists of sixteen dancers who have the option of choreographing and/or performing under the direction of Katherine Arnott. The Pacers begin the season by formulating ideas for the Spring Concert. At the same time they were kept busy performing at various functions throughout the fall. They perform every year at the Thanksgiving ceremony held at First Presbyterian Church as well as various functions on campus.

PACERS spring concert

This year's spring concert was a success, as usual. The three act production consisted of 10 pieces choreographed by various dancers. In the beginning of the fall semester each dancer in the company was given the opportunity to choreograph for the concert. Ten of the company's members decided to do just that. Using music ranging from Guns and Roses to the Beatles and Andrew Loyd Webber most dancers were challenged to perform to types of music that were quite unfamiliar to them.

THEATER productions

The cast of Little Women take time out during dress rehearsal to pose for a group shot.

Lord, let me laugh again but never let me forget how much I cried." From October 1-7, 1997, Dr. Kenny Gannon and the Peace College Drama Department put on the inspiring production of Little Women, written by Louisa May Alcott. The play occurs in the 1860's portraying the lives of the March family and the obstacles that four sisters must face in the name of love - love for one another and the value of life. Peace College's production of Little Women touched the hearts of 100 audience members for seven full nights not only because it was wonderfully written (adapted by Gannon), but also because it reflects our own memories, our own sorrows and happiness, our own lives.

THEATER productions

To be or not to be," is part of the theater department's recent past. This year William Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing dominated the limelight. The play was set in Hawaii in late 1945 at the end of World War II. Even with the change in time period, Dr. Kenny Gannon once again brings Shakespeare's eloquent language to life in a way that is very understandable and enjoyable. With nothing else on stage but a green sphere, the actors were still able to take the audience's imagination to Hawaii. The light and music brought the stage to life with a 1940's swinging style of dance. The whole cast seemed to thoroughly enjoy the presence of the stage and each other. They connected to each other magnificently and proved a real sense of family.

ART & DESIGN

The Peace College Art Department and the city of Raleigh both provide a rich environment for experiencing the arts. Art students explore career opportunities in area internships in which they work under the supervision of professionals/faculty on campus. Art students pursue exhibition opportunities throughout the community in numerous galleries and juried competitions. Local artists come to campus to share their work with students. They give lectures and exhibit their work in a new exhibitions space in the Main Building. Art students go to Washington, DC and tour museums and galleries in the Museum Practicum course. This summer students may experience the arts on the fine arts tour of France and England.

There are quite a few athletes on Peace College campus. Some have the privilege and the courage to represent our school while playing on the organized teams here. PEACE VOLLEYBALL

The PeaceVolleyball season came to an end with the final record of 6 and 21. The Pride team had a full season of 28 or more matches — a truly exhausting schedule. With only three returning players the Peace volleyball team is still building up its program, but after just two seasons is already showing great improvement.

The Peace Pride fan club members show their spirit with words at the pride volleyball team's home game.

PEACE BASKETBALL

The Peace Pride Basketball team is also in its second year competing in NCAA Division Three stats. The team was much bigger and better this season. The season started off strong because of the five returning players: Mandy Frazier, Kati Moerman, Abby Smith, Brooke Lilley, and Chery Wellons. They set the pace for the six new players. Coach Edwards says: "plan on seeing the best Peace Basketball team yet, next year as the team keeps improving."

Brooke Lilley holds her stance as she waits to see her foul shot go — the rest of the team waits to rebound.

The team huddles right before the basketball game to discuss what needs to be done to win. The team ends by shouting "Go Peace Pride."

Kati Simmons guards the basketball while looking to pass to one of her teammates.

Mandy Fraizer gets open and shoots a three pointer, while the rest of the Peace team is boxing out for the rebound.

PEACE TENNIS

The overall 1997-98 record was 5 wins and 6 losses. The highlight was the Ruth Hopkins Tournament in October co-sponsored by Meredith College and Peace College. Coach Houser said, "It was fun to watch the team bond both on the court and off from Fall to Spring season. I really enjoyed coaching these exceptional young women. They were a fun and talented group."

peace Athletic Banquet

The first annual Peace College Athletic Banquet was held at The Velvet Cloak Inn on Sunday, April 26. The Banquet was a great success with excellent dining as well as atmosphere. Dr. Briggs said a few words to praise the athletes for doing a wonderful job this season. The other speakers of the night were Toni Sauls, Debbie Edwards, Deborah Houser, and Dr. McLennan. Each of the three sports had two main awards which they awarded to a Peace College athlete. For Volleyball, Coach Edwards awarded the Most Improved award to Patrice Moorefield. The Most Valuable Player was awarded to Rebecca Wood. In Basketball there were two athletes who were awarded Most Improved: Emily Gardner and Tori Mervyn. Mandy Frazier was the highlight of the evening; she received Peace College Basketball's Most Valuable Player award as well as the Frazier Cup. The Frazier Cup goes to the best all-around athlete chosen by members of the Athletic Council. Coach Houser gave out the awards for Tennis. The Most Improved went to Polly Nelson and the Most Valuable went to Vanessa Kerkhof. The banquet came to an end with an outstanding closing by Dr. McLennan.

People here at Peace College carry on the everyday activities that balance out the extraordinary and this balance keeps life normal and fulfilling. Wider Views of Student Life

The ladies of Peace College do more than just study. We lead very active lifestyles which enhance our personalities, broaden our views of life and bring fun into our days and nights. Cheering for ball games and getting sunburns, climbing a ladder to walk a wire 60 ft. in the air, and digging ice cream from a gallon tub for your friend are all activities displayed here. These are just the beginning of a wide array of experiences that makes us unique. The view of the world open to us is limited only by the boundaries of our imaginations. We bring away from each person we meet and from each new place we visit "a wider view of life."

The view of the world open to us is limited only by the boundaries of our imaginations.

Study Abroad

International Study opportunities are available to Peace College students each summer. Participants in the Study Programs attend lectures, visit historic sites, receive academic credit, and have an unforgettable group of friends to make the summer a memorable experience. The summer programs include Peace's own Mexican Culture and Civilization course, our Fine Arts Tour of France and England, and cooperative programs in England with North Carolina State University.

Students who attended the study program at Mexico's Yucaton Peninsula got to explore the historic city of Merida, as well as see many museums, parks and markets. Students stayed in the Central College Center. Some of the sites visited this summer were the Loltun Cave and the Temple of the Seven Dolls.

Loltun Cave.

A few students from Peace also attended the Summer at Oxford offered through North Carolina State University. The students resided at the University of Oxford, England's Oldest University. Along with touring the sites, the students were allowed to take a three-credit hour class in art, literature, or history. Some of the sites visited were Buckingham Palace, Blenheim Palace, and the Courts of Wimbledon.

Students enrolled in History of Art, Art Appreciation, or any studio art course were given the opportunity to earn an additional credit for a field practicum. They visited museums and experienced various art forms in Greensboro and Washington, DC. The goal of these trips was to expose students to a diverse artistic climate in which they gain a direct experience and knowledge of a wide variety of art forms and styles, as well as to stimulate the development of personal creative work.

Students who went on the trips felt as though they would be more active and informed participants in the arts community. The practicum not only allowed for field experience, but also provoked personal thought for future projects by the students who attended.

HIKING TRIP

No showers. No beds. No TV. Just yourself and a few friends, camped out in the forest for two and a half days. Sound like fun? To thirteen Peace students and Ms. Sue Fisher, it did. They participated in PSRA's annual Hiking Trip to Hanging Rock State Park. On the afternoon of Friday, September 12, they headed out in two vans and arrived back in Raleigh the following Sunday dirty and exhausted.

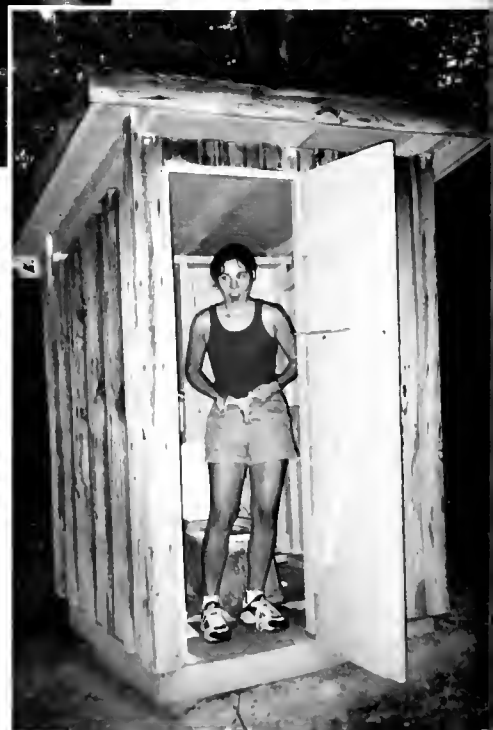

Watch your step! Karen Balch gets assistance from Ms. Fisher as she attempts to cross the waterfall without getting her feet wet.

One of the group's favorite stops during the Hiking Trip was the waterfalls. Not only were they beautiful, but it was the closest thing to a shower students were getting that weekend.

Because of the stench, Karen Balch kept the door to the outhouse open while she was in it. Unfortunately, this provided an opportunity to capture quite a Kodak moment.

WHITEWATERRAFTING

As cars drive by honking their horns, Rea Thompson, Emily Koontz, Jean Keeton, and Suzanne Gooden pose for Alli Davey at the South Carolina Welcome Center.

As fall break approached, many wondered how to spend it. Seven Peace students opted for adventure and danger. They traveled to Georgia and went rafting down the Wattooga River.

Montreat

A trip to Montreat is a biannual event enjoyed by all who choose to go.

At the same time the parents were arriving for Parents day, some Peace College students were on their way to Black Mountain in Montreat, North Carolina. Linda Sparrow described the retreat as "a beautiful place in the mountains" where "firm friendships" could be made. There the students stayed in a place called the Peace House, their home away from home. The girls got to enjoy activities such as hikes, square dancing, and other group activities with students from other Raleigh colleges like State and Meredith. The Peace girls even got to enjoy the attendance of a past Peace chaplain, Ms. Anne Jones.

In the spring just as most Peace students were heading off to Cancun, some were returning to Black Mountain. This time it was an all-church retreat sponsored by First Presbyterian. The girls got to participate in the worship service by helping with the offering. In the afternoon the girls had free time to do what they wished, which usually meant shopping or hiking into the mountain. By attending the retreat, the Peace girls got to bond with members of First Presbyterian as well as other Peace students.

"It was a lot of fun. I got to know a lot of people. It was nice to feel that people were going to be there when I needed them. I really felt at home." Hatie Mayo

Above Right: Mary Kathryn works to decorate for the party. Above: Frazier residents enjoy treats during their social.

To celebrate the year, Resident Assistant Mary Kathryn Tyson, organized a social for the girls in her dorm. The majority of the Frazier residents are seniors. So, it seemed fitting to label this event as the Senior Social. There were awards given to the residents, ranging from Most Cigarette Butts (recipient: Melissa Schuchardt) to Most Likely to Succeed (recipient: Catherine Sineith).

PEACE HOLIDAYS

Holidays are a big part of the Peace College experience. Hall as well as overall school activities are planned to get the students, faculty, and staff into the holiday spirit. Halloween was a big success when conjoined with Fall Fest, and Christmas is always a favorite among the students. Holidays on campus are always a perfect time for students to come closer together: as a hall, as a class, as a community.

MYSTERY TRIPS

What could be a better way to get to know your classmates than to get together and experience something new?! Mystery trips do just that. All you need is a small group of girls and several clues to make the night unforgettable. Some of the clues might lead them astray, but by the end of night the group finds its way to a lot of fun. Whether it be to Chucky Cheese, Raleighwood, or to the local McDonald's, mystery trips are always a success.

Having Fun

When class is over and the homework is complete, Peace students always find something to occupy their time. Sometimes they just hang out with their friends, go out to eat, or take a weekend getaway. Whatever the decision Peace girls are always HAVING FUN!

Students of the Advanced Photography class held an impressive exhibition of their work in Leggett Theatre. The 495 show, named after the photography course number, was a collection of photos created by Karen Bass, Heather Evans, Gretta Davis, Katherine Costa, and Carrie Bryant. The show featured a variety of artistic themes and subjects, including landscape, still life, and portraiture.

Who are those girls in your classes that you haven't seen before? Are they new students? No,they're DAY STUDENTS. Whether you live on campus or off campus you are a big part of Peace College. The number of day students has increased greatly over the past few years and we don't want to leave them out. They have their own socials, parties, and their specialty is the Friday night Coffee Talks. Coffee talk is where a group of day students get together and visit a local coffee shop. The nights lead to a lot of coffee and a lot of challenging conversation.

PEACEWEEKENDS

Many students brave the roads every Friday afternoon for their weekend adventure or they find their own adventure right here at Peace. Weekends range from ordering pizza in the room with friends to a weekend excursion to the beach. Weekends are a time to release academic tension from the week before or to just catch up on work that should have been done earlier. Regardless, everyone has a weekend story to tell.

SPRINGBREAK

Although the weather was not sunny and warm in Raleigh, most Peace girls found a way to enjoy themselves. Some chose to rest at home while others decided to relax in the sun.

Many students began planning their break during the first semester. They took trips to places like Panama City, Cancun, the Bahamas, and Miami. They visited amusement parks, clubs, and, of course, beaches.

Others went home for the week. They spent time with friends and family. Courtney Adams said, "I didn't go anywhere for spring break. The most exciting thing I did was sleep and I did a lot of that." Caralyn Bolte, however, did not have the best spring break. "I went home but I was sick the whole time."

Fortunately, regardless of how they spent the vacation, most students returned with great stories and fun pictures. Some came back with dark tans too!

Don't fall! Ashley Edlin, Chelcy Sherman, and Mauri Lybrand goof off at Walt Disney World, Florida.

While staying at the Bahama Princess Hotel in Freeport, Veronica Everett, Stacey Kinney, Chrissy Ragsdale, and Sarah Newton share a laugh.

MEMOIRS

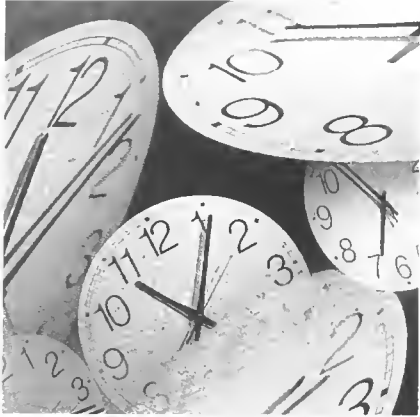

Back home in Maryland, Audrey Warrenfeltz hurries to unload her bags. Audrey spent her break visiting with friends and family.

I went home for Spring Break because I don't get to go home and see my friends and family as often as other people do. Also, I went home because I got to bring a friend!

The Wider Perspective
Graduation

The last days are here and students at Peace are ready for Commencement exercises. Family and friends stand by and accomplishments rewarded.

SOPHOMORE

Throughout the year Peace Students build and maintain friendships that will last to the end of the year and perhaps even for a lifetime. Many activities keep them occupied and there is quite a bit of pressure put upon us by parents, professors, employers and ourselves to do the best that we possibly can. These pictures depict the lives that each one of us lead and give an insider's view of the fun that goes along with the work.

AWARDS

As a Peace College tradition, each year students are recognized for their achievements at the annual Awards Convocation Ceremony. The ceremony is held in the Peace College Chapel and is attended by Faculty, Students, and Parents. Awards are given out by professors and advisors of many departments and organizations. The awards recognize outstanding academic achievement, most improved academic success, along with leadership involvement. Each year much thought is put into the awards and great consideration is given to all students.

Dr. Jean Arrington presents Cindy Robinson the Penny English Award for outstanding achievement in English. Cindy also won an award for her poem that was published in the Prism.

Dr. McLennan presents Latoya Mack an achievement award for working with the Peace Times.

Dr. Purrell presents Mandy Cutler with an academic achievement award for having the highest grades in Chemistry for two consecutive semesters.

Peace College held its 126th commencement ceremonies on Saturday, May 9th, 1999. This marked the last term for President Garrett Briggs and closed another semester. A special announcement was made regarding fundraising for the new academic building. An anonymous party donated $1 million toward its construction, which is to be completed in the year 2000. Class representative speakers were Allison Silberman of the sophomore class and Suzanne Page of the BA candidates. Sunny and full of life, it was an unforgettable day.

Below: Sophomore graduate Julie Lister proceeds back to her seat after receiving an Associate's degree and the traditional Peace College bible.

Peace College graduated its second senior class this May with two added departmental majors.

Right: Graduates were joined by many friends and family on their special day.

During the singing of the Alma Mater, Senior graduates congregate on the balcony of second floor Main to watch and sing.

GRADUATION

Graduation is a time of happiness as well as sorrow. Some Associate grads are transferring to other universities to complete their bachelors degrees. They are also leaving behind priceless friendships they have gained at Peace. Others have chosen to stay at Peace to complete their four-year degrees. Students receiving their bachelor's degrees are moving on to begin their careers, marriages, and new experiences. This can be exciting but also scary. Leaving Peace you take a great deal of pride with you but a piece of your heart is always left behind. So as you go, may you always be at Peace.

Outstanding Students

To be eligible for the outstanding sophomores and seniors awards these students had to be active and maintain good grades. In each of their own ways these girls have left a positive impression on the student body. For those graduating it was an emotional time during class day as they accepted a single rose each. Many tears fell when descriptions were read by close friends. Crystal Shaw said it all when she quoted her mother as saying "Don't cry because it's over . . . smile because it happened."

Miss Peace

The Frazier Award Winner, as well as Outstanding Senior, Katherine Costa has made many outstanding achievements both in academics and in service to Peace. Her reign as Senior Class President and her work with PSGA are widely known to all. She won this award for her service to the college and to her fellow students.

The honor of being nominated Miss Peace as well as being nominated an Outstanding Sophomore is something that Allison Siler will carry with her for the rest of her life. She has excelled in academics as well as in her commitment to Peace College. Everyone who meets Allison remembers her radiant smile most of all. She seems to carry it with her wherever she is, and no matter how hard her day has been she produces it when a friend is in need of some companionship. The smile, along with her southern twang, are hard to forget when accompanied by such a devoted and friendly attitude. Allison has been actively involved in PSGA, and even though chapel is not required for upper-classmen she managed to attend just about every service. Every student has either had the honor of meeting Allison or has heard of her. Her accomplishments have been great, and her reign as Miss Peace is a much deserved reward for such excellent service.

Heather Medd

Dear Heather,

In the beginning you led us to a quiet block in Raleigh: Peace College. Its voices, texture, and images have guided us not only by conventional wisdom but what now feels like grace. The privilege to meet and hear men and women whose lives add inspiration and luster to our own will continue to brighten your life.

With pride we celebrate your choice and future.

Love,
Daddy, Mommy and Catherine

Nicole McGee

What an extraordinary person you have become. You have already accomplished so many things that have made me feel so proud of you. You've earned the respect from your family and friends by being the person you are. You are intelligent, thoughtful, sensitive and beautiful. Your sophomore year held more challenges that you first expected. When faced with one of life's challenging moments you chose to meet the challenge head first because you trusted and believed in the person you knew inside, and wouldn't allow your dreams and goals to be shattered. I think that's when I realized you had grown up. I am so very proud to be your mother, and you my daughter, and remember you will always be my P- - - e. We are all so very proud of you and we love you so very much.

Love, Mom

Final Good-byes

We say good-bye to yet another school year: for some of us it's our first, for others our last. We have to say our final good-byes not only to Dr. Briggs and the graduating classes, but also to Mrs. Annette Woodard.

Mrs. Woodard was taken from our Peace College family suddenly, and will be greatly missed. She was friendly to us all here at Peace and will not soon be forgotten.

Though our friends and loved ones are leaving us this year, Peace will always be with them. . . it will just be A Wider Shade of Green.

You will go out in joy and be led forth in peace; the mountains and hills will burst into song before you, and all the trees of the field will clap their hands...

- Isaiah 55:12
